Politburo of Komala bulletin:
Kurdish nation in struggle for democracy

It has been two weeks since the start of the new wave of popular demonstration against the repression of Islamic Republic against residents of Kurdistan. Political dissent and the resilience of people in Mahabad in defending their dignity and their human rights could not be ignored by mass media anymore. Their just and dissenting voice was heard by a huge number of people inside and outside Kurdistan.

Demonstrations in many other Kurdish cities in solidarity with Mahabad residents and their demands showed one more time that Kurdistan is in the forefront of resistance against Islamic fundamentalism. No doubt current political struggle in Kurdistan is the beginning of a new wave of struggle for freedom and democracy in Kurdistan and Iran. The last few days has showed that political awareness, deep popular coherence, yearning for democracy and justice, and courage to resist have not been eliminated by repression and Islamic dictatorship but instead have been strengthened. Overt struggles and demonstrations by ordinary residents in Kurdistan showed one more time that Kurdistan is in the front line of struggle against religious dictatorship.

Military attacks and forceful repression of the peaceful demonstrations in Kurdistan is a prelude to the new wave of repression and militarism in all parts of Iran. On the other hand defending the Kurdistan political movement and their demands is defending secularism, democracy, and civil right movement.

We ask all the political and social activists, organizations, and political parties in all of Iran to support the new wave of the Kurdish struggle against the Islamic Republic. This struggle is the fight between civility and ignorance, democracy against dictatorship, secularism against Islamic dictatorship, and civil rights against the Mafia of repression. Only by supporting such struggles the congruency of all the various nationalities in Iran will be maintained and supported.

We are sure that the people of Kurdistan will come out successful in this new struggle. Komala will do all it can to strengthen the political movement and popular struggles of Kurdish people to gain secularism and justice and believes that Kurdish struggle is inseparable from the struggle of Iranian people for democracy. In this circumstance we ask for widespread cooperation of all parties and forces of Kurdistan. We do all we can to expand and extend the struggle and we are sure that joining of all the parties and groups resources to this struggle will be a big contributor to spread the struggle to all over Iran and subsequently gaining national and international support.

We ask all the comrades, activists and sympathizers of Komala to continue their activities in gaining support for the people of Kurdistan in their struggle to gain their just demands. People of Kurdistan will be more politically aware as the struggle continues and the next step will be even more successful. This is the duty of us and that of all the political activists of the liberation movement of Kurdistan.

Viva the liberation movement of Kurdistan

Down to the religious dictatorship of Islamic Republic of Iran
