

To day we remember the Shwan troop.

16 years ago on the 18th. And 19th. Marsh 1988 , the hearts of 70 stars stopped forever. In a hard war against the Islamic dictatorial occupying Iranian army, where they were outnumbered , 70 stars lost their lives on a plain called Sharazor, close to the lake Sirwan in Kurdistan- Iraq.

These 70 partisans was peshmerge for Komala. On the 7th. Of marsh 2002 the party decided that the 18th. Of marsh was to be a day to remember all stars in Komala that has given their lives for freedom in Kurdistan. With one voice we all will promise to these 70 stars that we will never forget their fight for socialism and freedom for the Kurdish people in Kurdistan.

This day will not be a day for crying , it will be a day to prepare for the revolution to come and to remember the goal to these 70 stars. These dear 70 stars chose to dye in freedom rather to wait to dye in slavery.

From the depth of our hearts we salutes these 70 stars.

Long live socialism.

Long live Komala.

Berit Rasmussen (Norway)

18th. Marsh 2003

